

DISSECT's Talking Evidence Series

Thinking about 'Judicial Truth'

with anthropologists Sandhya Fuchs & Jessica Greenberg

What is 'judicial truth'?

How different is it from other types of truths?

How is it established?

What does it make visible and invisible?

Why are these questions important in the context of human rights adjudication?

Friday 25 March 2022 at 15:00 CET (online)

Roundtable discussion led by Prof. Marie-Bénédicte Dembour followed by questions from the audience

Marie-Bénédicte Dembour is Professor of Law and Anthropology at Ghent University and the PI of the ERC research project 'DISSECT: Evidence in international human rights adjudication' (ERC-AdG-2018-834044).

Sandhya Fuchs is a Leverhulme Early Career Research Fellow in social anthropology at the University of Edinburgh, where she is working on her current project entitled "Hate Speech in India: Judicial Politics of History and Memory".

Jessica Greenberg is Associate Professor in Anthropology at the University of Illinois. She is currently working on a book provisionally titled: Ghosts in the Machine: Ethnographic perspectives on the European Court of Human Rights.

All welcome but please register at <https://eventmanager.ugent.be/judicialtruth>
by 24 March 2022